Hello. My name is Noel Posus, and I'll be your host for this exciting event. I'm also the co-Director and Master Coach of askacoach.com which is the Platinum Sponsor for the conference.

Why is this such a remarkable event? Quite simply because as an industry we have to really pay attention to the changes in the marketplace and our own industry and we must use that awareness to be proactive business leaders, including challenging and developing ourselves. Did you know that more coaches are leaving this industry every day to go back to full time jobs? We can turn this around together. Please join me at the conference to find out how.
